INTENDING to remove to the state

Tennessee as soon as possible, I wish to

I inherited from my ancestors, who have had hundred years.

One tract well known by the name of ARNOLD, being on the Potomac river between Alexandria and George Town, and nearly opposite the city of Washington, beautifully situated, containing about Four Hundred acres, now leased to the Mr. Wises for three hundred and sixty dollars per annum with other stipulations contained in the said lease.

One other tract contiguous to the first, leased to William Fraser for forty dollars per annum, containing about six acres.

One other tract containing ten acres of bottom land, adjoining the Four Mile Mill tract.

One other tract contiguous to the Abingdon estate, and within two and a half miles of George Town, containing 725 acres.

The greatest part of this land is heavily covered with red and white Oak.

W. S. A.

Three thousand acres on the Scioto

River, in the state of Ohio.

This tract descended to me from my uncle George D. Alexander, being one moiety of the land he was entitled to for his military services during the revolutionary war. All the title papers with the wills under which I am entitled to the above property, are in the hands of BALDWIN DABE, Esq. to whom application will please to be made for terms &c.

he being legally authorised to contract and dispose of all the above valuable property, for which good and satisfactory titles will be given.

Walter S. Alexander.

Secretary of state for the war and by the Marquis of Wellesley, active probably on a pension. The of Portland also continues seriously inof Bulstrode. The operation which some months ago, though ad-well performed, has from age put on unfavorable appearance that will render Grace unfit for public business. In case resignation, Lord Melville is mention-as his successor.

November 19.
The American minister is understood to be prised at the terms of the late decree of cabinet. His surprise is indeed very naas hot the remotest idea of such a meare was intimated to Mr. Monroe upon his departure—nay more, Lord Bathurst states, it was unknown to our minister, Mr.
Rose, and that it was determined upon when he sailed. Mr. Pinckney is said to complain particularly of that part of the decree which relates to "certificates of origin"—as that arrangement is calculated altogether to prevent the intercourse of America with any port of France or its dependencies. This arrangement is conceived perfectly wanton, as cannot serve any avowed object of this country, and must injure America. "Certificates of origin" are documents obtained from the French consuls, testifying that the cargo to which they refer is not of the produce or manufacture of the British empire, and the production of such a certificate is necessary before any cargo from a neutral can be landed in an enemy's port. Now the destruction of such documents must completely extinguish the commerce of neutrals with any part of the enemy's territory, which is an object not proposed in the order of council. If ministers are really determined on such an object, they should have distinctly avowed it, and not have continued to wrap it up in that mass of words and complication of sentences which mark the whole of these orders, and which leave the merchants subject to the capricious and too often contradictory interpretation of courts of admiralty. The American merchants, however, have been able to trace in this labyrinth of phrases the hostile tendency of the decree against their trade, and they have accordingly remonstrated. Some of these gentlemen have already had an interview with Mr. Perceval; and a deputation from the committee of American merchants are this day to meet earl Bathurst, Mr. Canning, Mr. Perceval, Mr. Rose and Mr. Huskisson, in order to ascertain the precise construction which ministers and their agents mean to put upon the or-

It is stated that some further orders of council for the regulation of trade are determined upon by ministers. To some of these orders the late decrees refer; but one of a new description is expected, which is said to be much more of a hostile character with regard to neutrals, than any that have yet appeared.

All who are concerned in the American trade seem to think it a mere pretence on the part of ministers that these measures had not been determined upon. It must indeed be recollected, that the threat of a general blockade has been the common topic of conversation upon Change particularly among the ministerial circles for more than two months past.

PHILADELPHIA, January 30.

Additional files of London papers, to a late date were received at the office of the Register by this morning's Eastern mail.—In the courier of the 16th of November we find the following articles:

"The Melpomene, Unite and Weazle, have been a long time employed in blockading the port of Venice. Whilst on that service a Russian squadron, of 3 sail of the line 7 frigates, sloops, and transports with 5,000 troops on board, appeared off there; captain Campbell of the Unite, informed the Russian commodore, that the port was under a blockade, and he could not enter. The Russian commodore felt much embarrassed from the delicacy of his situation, and at length agreed not to enter the port, till he had written to the Russian minister at Vienna upon the subject. The Russian minister's reply was "that he was to go into Venice with his ships, regardless of the British squadron." The Russian force was so much superior, that our ships were obliged to submit; but captain C. previously informed the Russian commodore, that they must go in with their whole force at once, for he could not allow the Russian frigates to go separately and break the blockade.
The Russian commodore behaved with the greatest urbanity, and was extremely sorry that he was obliged to force the blockade.

An order has been received at Portsmouth to make the utmost exertions in getting the fleet of war, which are fitting in the harbor, to go to Spithead. The Voluntaire, in Bullen, and the Amphion, captain Boste went out on Saturday morning; the Turpide, 64, captain Worsley, yesterday morning; and the Neptune, 98, sir T. Williams, is to be manned from the Northumberland and Maid, and go out immediately. The active exertions are making throughout all departments, and with as much spirit as at commencement of a war." having been adduced. They meet again this day.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 2.

We have received by the last mail from Chillicothe the "Fredonian" of the 12th ult. on the margin of which it is said "Burr and Blannerhasset arrived here last evening."

(Nat. Intell.)

Extract of a letter from Havana, received at Philadelphia.

"I lament to find that from some information I received this morning, I shall not see you as soon as I had anticipated. I cannot say, here, what that information is, but you will know what I mean. From the quantity of flour at market it is still selling at 12 dollars, but my next advice will be that it is thirty!

"A person arrived here a few days past from Spain, in the appearance of a seaman, who it is whispered has brought some dispatches of the utmost importance to the affairs of this colony."

London Courier, Nov. 24.

The Hamburg merchants are exposed to the same treatment as the English. A merchant of that place, who has extensive dealings in America, was lately obliged to surrender the keys of his warehouse to French authority. For some time he refused and complained, but at last he was directed by one of the Senators to make the surrender. This took place in the presence of Mr. Forbes, the American Consul, who was requested to attend as a witness of the transaction.

Foreign Correspondence.

Communicated for the Philadelphia Gazette.

We are indebted for the following interesting Extracts of Letters from Europe, to the politeness of our commercial friends whose communications will always be thankfully acknowledged by us and received with interest by our readers.

FRANCE, Nov. 11.

"You would be astonished were you to witness the progress of the woollen and silk manufactories, and the incredible success and increase of those of cotton in France. Since about three years, the consumption of cotton wool has increased near three fold, and it is impossible to say in what proportion this increase will progress, if we continue to receive this raw material with facility, and in the proportions in which it is wanted.

"France has consumed for the last two years, per ann. upwards of 65,000 bales of Brazil cotton, (each bale containing 120 lbs neat French wt.) imported from Lisbon, in the following proportions, 50,000 bales at Nantz, 10,000 at Cherbourg, and 5,000 at Antwerp & Bordeaux.

November 13.

"The prince regent of Portugal closing his ports against the English has had no effect on the unrelenting spirit of the court of St Cloud His submission to its dictates has been thought too tardy, and an order was issued & has already been executed here to imprison all Portuguese subjects, and to confis-cate their vessels, merchandise and freights!!—No alternative is now left to the prince regent but to embark for Brazil, which he undoubtedly will do, and the valuable productions of that rich country will henceforward go direct to England. France of course must look anxiously for her future supply of cotton to the U.S. from whence she will need annually from 30 to 40000 additional bales."

From Bremen, Nov. 20.

"In consequence of the last French decree any kind of intercourse with G. Britain, and the introduction of all such articles which may be imported from England and her colonies, is prohibited, on account of this, prices of coffee and sugars in particular, have experienced a considerable rise, and are at least 25 to 30 higher than they were some weeks ago.
Tobacco and rice have also advanced and will be higher during the winter.

"We have no doubt but that your country will remain at peace as well with G. Britain as with France, in which case we can with propriety recommend shipments of the above mentioned article, but we must observe that it will be absolutely necessary to accompany all goods, even tobacco, cotton and rice not excepted, with a certificate of origin from the French consul at your port. It is impossible to say how long the before mentioned decree will remain in force, but we have every reason to hope that it will be soon mitigated in our favor, at least with respect to real American produce, such as tobacco, rice, &c.

It is naturally to be expected that as long as the present measures against the trade with England are continued, that it will deter many people from venturing to our ports, on which account those which may obtain the permission to land their cargo here, will make so much more brilliant profits.

We have only to observe, that the difficulty of getting such a permission, for the introduction of neutral produce is not so great, if managed prudently, and application made on the right board."

November 21.

"There is an embargo here laid by the French government on all vessels without exception—and capt Hall, of New York, by whom I send you this, and whose vessel lays in the mouth of the river, is the only one that will be permitted to depart. Times here are very bad. Navigation and business is all done up; the shores on both sides of the Weser are guarded by French troops, and any communication with England whatever, is most rigorously prohibited."

Our readers will recollect a communication which appeared in the Herald of the 12th instant on the subject of the frigate Statira. The communication stated, that a boat with passengers from Hampton to this place, and provisions for the Statira, called along side of that frigate for the purpose of delivering the provisions; when arrived along side the frigate, they were saluted with the groans of persons who appeared to be suffering the most excruciating torture. This became so distressing to the passengers on board the boat, that they became anxious to leave their situation and proceed on their journey, when they were threatened in the most brutal manner, with being fired into unless they waited until it was the pleasure of his majesty's officers to receive the provisions. The source from which the screams and groans proceeded is now known, and the cause which produced them is also well known. We state it on the most respectable information, which admits not of the probability of a doubt, that that they were the groans of American citizens writhing under the lash of petty tyrants!—and their crime, having declared that they were American citizens, and having sent some letters on shore by the pilot, notifying the collector of this port of their fate, and praying his interference!

(Norfolk Herald, Jan. 19.)

AUDI ALTERAM PARTEM!
HEAR BOTH SIDES!

This caution is peculiarly necessary at the present period. While the two governments are discussing the points in dispute between them, every thing that would tend to widen the breach, or create irritation, should be avoided. We should not suffer passion and prejudice to usurp the seat of candor and justice, but weigh all the circumstances before we decide. Desirous that a correct judgment should be had, we republish from the Norfolk Herald the article which produced the STATEMENT that follows, and have only to observe that it also comes from a respectable source. We would "nothing extenuate, nor set down aught in malice."

A plain Statement of Facts.

From the Washington Federalist.

A man, who stated his place of residence and birth to be Essex, volunteered with several others on board the Statira whilst she lay at Portsmouth, (England) was entered on the ship's books, after receiving the king's bounty. When the Statira arrived in Hampton Roads, this man wrote to the collector of Norfolk, that he was an American citizen, impressed and kept unlawfully on board this frigate, by capt. Bromley, who treated him cruelly—and demanded or requested his interference to procure his liberation. When captain Bromley was informed of this fact, he told the sailor that he was lawfully and voluntarily his Britan-nic majesty's sailor, and that he had committed a violent offence against the discipline of his ship and the service, in villify-ing him and his officers, and should be punished for it, by whipping. Whilst the punishment was inflicting, a boat employed to bring fresh beef for the ship's crew, came near the frigate. An inferior officer hailed her, and directed she should keep off a short time, until the punishment then in execution should be completed. An altercation ensued between the crew of this boat and this officer—during which the officer said in reply to the boatman's declaration that he would go off immediately, that if they took away the beef of the crew, he would fire upon them. The other answered, "Fire and be damned," and went off with the provisions. A short time after this occurrence, Mr. Rose, whilst walking the deck, was rudely brushed against by a drunken sailor—he then learned, for the first time, that this man had been punished, on his being released, had got drunk—and for the first time heard the above circumstances. Mr. Rose thought it prudent to have an immediate enquiry into the fact attending the enlistment of this man; and putting the officers on their honor, they all agreed in the statement of captain B. that it was entirely voluntary. Captain B. gave the most positive assurances, that when proof was brought that this man was an American citizen, he should be liberated without delay. This man may be from Exsex in England, or Essex in the U. States; but the probability was in favor of his being from England—as he, with others, had volunteered, and did not designate the place of residence farther than here stated.

Extract of a letter from Norfolk, dated Jan.
21st 1808.

"The circumstance which has been grossly misrepresented as having taken place on board the British frigate Statira, was simply as follows:

"A seaman was punished in the common mode for having falsely accused his officers, and he so little regarded the punishment, that he got drunk in that state. He claims his discharge as an American, but has given no proof of it. He entered as a volunteer at Portsmouth in England, and received the bounty as such; but his captain has offered to discharge him on due proof of his birth being given.

"During the punishment, a boat came along side, and as is invariably the custom, was desired but not by the commanding officer to keep off for a few moments, and then return to the ship. A very short and trivial verbal altercation ensued; but it is to be observed that the boat crew carried their point with some inconvenience to the frigate."
